Visualization for high throughput screening data

Oleg Sklyar

October 3, 2007

splots is a small utility package with visualization routines for high throughput screens. It started as a spin-off from the cellHTS package, with the function plotScreen.

1 The plotScreen function

Short code example with made up data to produce a plot.